COMMENCEMENT AT ALBANY.

ALBANY, June 19, 1873.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN

This quiet little town, or "Lily of the Valley," as Albany may be called, has been quite animated the last day or two, this being the advent of a new era in the educational interests of this place. The Albany Collegiate Institute to day had its first Commencement Exercises, which has been an occasion of much interest, not only to the immediate friends of the graduating class, but to almost the entire community.

This Institute was organized about the year 1868, under the auspices of the Presbyterian Church, and under the immediate supervision of Rev. E R. Geary and Mr. Montieth. It has passed through many trials and difficulties, which at times seemed to threaten its very existence. Although it has at different times had for its Principal very able and good men, it seemed to be eking out an existence to a speedy and inglorious end. Frequent changes of teachers created a lack of confidence of the people up to the time of the present collegiate administration, since when, it has been gradually growing in the respect of this community; and judging from the performances of the class graduating to day, Albany may at no distant day be proud of this as one of the best institutions of learning in the State.

The exercises were inaugurated by a lecture from Rev. Mr. Bowers, of Salem, entitled "Two Books by the same Great Author," on Wednesday evening, in the presence of the school and a goodly number of citizens of Albany. The lecture, (the same delivered at the Masonic Hall in Portland, a short time ago, by the Rev. gentleman for the benefit of the M. E. Church at Coos Bay) was well received and highly appreciated by the audience.

On Wednesday forenoon there was a series of essays, declamations, dialogues, etc., by the Literary Union, composed of the Sigma Phi, Erodelphian, Aesthetic and Philozetian, which are the different literary societies belonging to the Institute. This portion of the programme was confined to the junior class, but was marked by a promptness and thoroughness which reflect much credit on both teachers and scholars.

At 2 o'clock the exercises incident to the conferring of degrees on the graduating class took place. The class with the title of their essays, were as follows:

Miss Cora J. Irvine—Essay—(salutatory) "Where is thy Home?"

Miss Maria E. Irvine—Essay—"Unwritten History."

Miss Mary J. Hannon—Essay—"Alabama."

Miss Weltha M. Young—Valedictory.

Each was followed by a piece of vocal or instrumental music, the principal performers of which were Misses Kate Connor, Laura Tate, Ella Barrows, Aurelia Blain, and Profs. Warren and Sacks.

To give anything but the essays entire, would do the young ladies great injustice; as while it might give the ideas, it would destroy the beauties of the arrangement of the matter and elegance of expression, which so fully indicate the careful and industrious student, and active, thinking mind.

Albany, its Collegiate Institute and Professors, may well be proud of this its first graduating class, for it is no idle flattery to say that in point of native ability and scholarly culture, this class will be fully up to the standard of that of any other institution of learning on the coast.

Prof. Warren and his assistants have done themselves much credit by the results of to-day's performance.

In the evening, there was a social reunion of the entire school and their friends, which was a very pleasant affair in its way.

THE TERRITORIES.

The Waldron troupe was playing at Idaho City to good houses a week ago.

The first goods of the season by way of the Missouri river arrived at Helena, Montana, on the 6th inst.

The repairs on the Presbyterian Church at Olympia have been completed, and it is again ready for occupancy.

Idaho City is quite a peaceable community. At the last session of the District Court at that place no grand jury was called, as there was no criminal business for it to consider.

Paul Spiegel, of Bozeman, M. T., was drowned in the West Gallatin river while attempting to ford it on the 5th inst. His horse fell in the middle of the stream, and he was carried under by the current.

A company has been formed in Meagher county, Montana, for the purpose of building a bridge over the Missouri river, to connect that county with Lewis and Clarke, at a point about half a mile above Canyon Ferry.

Maj. Shanahan, agent of the Flatheads, reports times very quiet in Missoula county. Many of the farmers are not putting in any crops at all this year, and the crickets are walking away with a considerable portion of the crops that are in. The "pesky varmints" are lively about the Agency farm, containing about 140 acres, and it is feared that the now fine looking looking crop will be entirely destroyed.

BRITISH COLUMBIA.

The Hudson Bay Company's ship Beverly Hill, 168 days from London, arrived at Victoria on the 14th inst.

Messrs. Morris & Corthorn have arrived at Barkerville and reopened the branch of the Bank of British North America.

H. V. Edmonds, Esq., of New Westminster, has been appointed to two additional offices: those of Gold Commissioner and Registrar of B. D. and M. These make twenty offices now held by this gentleman.

Mr J. Johnston has arrived at Victoria from Kootenay. He says that pack trains now bring large quantities of supplies from Missoula, Montana Territory, into the mines and living is very cheap Beef is only 8 cent per pound on the block; flour, 8 cents per pound; hams, 25 and 30 cents; bacon, 25 cents. Two Government and five private prospecting parties are out and expect to strike several camps this season. Farmers are putting in large crops. Cattle wintered well, are very numerous and are falling in price. The season has been very backward and the rivers are very high. There are but three miles of snow on the Hope Mountain.

The Sixteenth Annual Session of the Central Baptist Church of Oregon was held with the Union Baptist Church, Polk county, June 5th, 6th and 7th, 1873. The Statistical Table states the number of churches in the Association, 19; number of churches with pastors, 11; number of ordained ministers in the Association, 11, licentiates, 6, total membership, 925 increase the last year, 19, amount of missionary funds collected, $376 92, with an unpaid, but good, subscription to the fund of $67. The officers of the Association for the present year are Elder A J Hunsaker, Moderator, Elder C. H. Mattoon, Clerk, and Deacon A. W. Stannard, Treasurer. It was voted to hold the next meeting of the Association with Pleasant Butte Church at Brownsville, Linn county, Thursday before the second Sabbath in June, 1874

BURNING OF THE ALEXANDRA PALACE.—The total loss by the burning of the Alexandria Palace is estimated at $3,000,000—insured for $600,000. The fire was caused by the carelessness of the workmen who were repairing sewers No one was killed, but several persons were injured. The supply of water was scarce, hence the rapidity with which the fire spread. In half an hour from the time the alarm was given the entire structure was enveloped in flames, and one by one the domes with which it was surmounted fell in. The large organ was destroyed, but some valuable pictures and other works of art were saved.

OREGON.

A campmeeting is now in progress at Roberts Bridge, on the Calapocia, and is largely attended.

Savage and Wilson, under arrest for stealing horses in Yamhill county, have been taken to Salem for trial.

The Spiritualists of Clackamas county hold a grove meeting July 12th and 13th at the grove near Parrot's.

The people of Tillamook are making preparations to celebrate the Fourth of July in an appropriate manner.

Two boys were "fooling" with a gun at Corvallis last Thursday. One of them, it is thought, is not likely to recover.

Some silly fellow at Salem, according to the Mercury, tried to kill himself because he wanted a woman whom he couldn't get.

The iron ore found on the farm of Thos. Fields, on the Tualatin, is pronounced by the Enterprise as rich as any in the United States.

The citizens of Brownsville are to have a grand time on the 4th of July, and invite their friends to come and help them celebrate.

City election at the Dalles last Monday, but up to Saturday, no one of any party was found who was willing to run either for Mayor or Councilman.

The Brownsville Woolen Factory is in full blast, turning out work in good shape. Brownsville is beginning to assume her old look of business and thrift.

The Albany Democrat says: "The American buzzard won't soar aloft in this bailiwick on the glorious Fourth. We have loaned our bird to Corvallis."

There are ten or twelve Farmers' Granges in this State already, organized by Mr. Campbell the Deputy for Oregon. Five of these Granges are in Linn county.

The Eugene Hawkeye says the late heavy rains have done much damage to hay and fall crops, beating the grass and grain down so that it cannot be handled.

J. B. Samuel and May E. Kennedy are thought to be somewhere in Oregon. They have fallen heir to a Scottish land estate and are requested to come to the front.

Mr. J. M. Bacon presented to Oregon Lodge No. 3, I. O. O. F., Oregon City, last Thursday evening, a very handsome set of jewels for the appointed officers.

The rains have caused a cessation of work on the Santiam Ditch and a large number of the workmen have been airing themselves in Albany for the past few days.

Hon. Geo. R. Helm, the "Lion of Linn," (formerly so called until Gen. Mart. Brown began to make speeches) has been invited to deliver the oration at Corvallis on the Fourth.

The contract for building the bridge across the Yamhill, at Dayton, has been let to Gen. Coffin for $2,500. Mr. Brothers has the contract for furnishing the piles at 3½ cents per foot.

According to latest advices the recently discovered gold mines in Ochoco have not come up to the sanguine hopes which first reports excited. Many of those who went thither will return as soon as they can get means.

The Albany Democrat says: "Bro. Carter, of the Corvallis Gazette, while manipulating a campmeeting last Sunday was ran away with by a rantankerous hourse, and this week he sleeps on his left side and wears a patch over his right eye.

A prospecting party, consisting of Messrs. John Parker, Ted. Parker, Thos. Humphrey, H. C. Clement and J. R. Herron, started on a prospecting tour from Albany, on Thursday. They will probably thoroughly investigate the Ochoco gold diggings.

The Albany Register says Monday and Tuesday's rains have settled the crop business without a peradventure. Wheat and oats are fairly jumping out of the ground. We expect to turn out the hugest crop of grain this fall ever harvested in Linn county.

Our Pendleton correspondent writing under date of June 17th, says: "Enough rain fell yesterday and last night to make the roads quite muddy, and be a great benefit to growing vegetation. The I. C. of R. C. will give a strawberry festival here on Friday, the 20th inst."

We are informed by a gentleman who has just made a tour of Yamhill county that the farmers are highly elated over the prospects of splendid crops which they expect to harvest this season. Some of the wheat is as high as a medium sized man's ears, and heading out finely.

A letter in the Lafayette Courier says: "The immense barrier that has heretofore been the means of separating the people of Tillamook has not been removed, but surmounted. The new wagon road will be open for travel by the 20th of July, while all who have passed over it pronounce it a good road."

The Idaho Statesman thus slanders an Oregon minister: "Near the close of the day of a campmeeting in Oregon, a short time ago, the local preacher said, alluding to the meeting to be held next day: 'I hope all the congregation will be here by 10 o'clock, for precisely at that hour we will pass to the creek, where I shall baptize four adults and six adulteresses.'"

The sudden raise of the river last Tuesday carried away the boom and about $6,000 worth of logs the Laird Brothers were furnishing Underwood & Co's new mill at Eugene. It is feared that Captain Packard of the same place has lost heavily by the high water, as he had already commenced running his logs. He had in the river, we believe, about 1,000,000 feet.

At the session of Falls Encampment No. 4, I. O. O. F., Oregon City, held last Tuesday evening, the following persons were elected officers for the next term: W. P. Burns, C. P.; J. T. Apperson, H. P.; W. H. Pope, S. W.; A. Levy, Scribe; J. M. Bacon, Treasurer; J. W. Meldrum, J. W. The installation will take place on the first Tuesday evening in July.

A Chinaman, who has been in the vicinity of Lafayette buying hogs, was stopped on the road last Thursday morning between that place and Dayton, by a white man, who said he hailed from Oregon City, and relieved of $500 and a pistol. The officers were soon after the highwayman, and, we learn, succeeded in capturing the suspected party, but he denied getting anything but the pistol.

On the 7th inst. some men passing up the Wallamet river, at a point a short distance above the mouth of the Yamhill river, saw something in the sand near the edge of the water which had the appearance of a bone. On making a careful examination of it they found it to be the tusk or tooth of some extinct species of animal, supposed to be the Mammoth. On making further examination they found part of a jaw bone of the same animal. The tooth is not broken or decayed. It measures 16 inches in length and 18 inches in circumference, and weighs 13½ pounds. The part of the jaw bone found measures 20 inches in length, and weighs 16½ pounds. The relics were found on the Marion county side of the Wallamet river, about 25 feet below the top of the bank, and two feet above the edge of the water.

The Illinois papers generally appear to be thoroughly disgusted with the result of the recent judicial elections in that State. Yesterday we quoted the opinion of the Chicago Tribune. The Illinois State Journal endorses that opinion and adds:

> In view of the fact that Chief Justice Lawrence, one of the ablest and most splendid jurists that can be found in the entire nation, has through a strange and short-sighted caprice of the people, been thrown aside to make room for a mediocre—a man who is utterly and fearfully incompetent to discharge the duties of the high and responsible office of Judge of the Supreme Court, one may well express the apprehension that the system of selecting judicial officers by popular vote is, after all, "a fallacy." In other official positions, the accidental election of a botch or blockhead, although unfortunate, is not fatal. It is a mistake which carries no disastrous consequences with it. But to have an unqualified and an unfit person elevated to an office in which are to be settled the most delicate, abstruse and important questions that transpire among men, and States and communities, and for the proper discharge of the duties of which peculiar and distinctive qualifications are essential, is a reproach to our popular form of government. We can only say that Illinois, by electing this "political bummer," this man Craig, over Chief Justice Lawrence, has lowered itself in the eyes of the world.

SATURDAY MORNING [illegible]

The Demand of the Water Company

On last Wednesday evening, that being the first meeting of the Common Council of this city after the Charter Election, that body received from the Portland Water Company a notice that after the expiration of the present contract between the city and the company, the city would be charged $750 per month for water for the fire cisterns and public buildings, instead of $100 as heretofore charged. This, of course, surprised the Council. The city had never refused to pay the company a reasonable price for the water it used. Its contracts with the company had always been promptly performed by the city, so far as we have been aware. Those contracts have, doubtless, been profitable to the Water Company, or it would not have entered into them.

What, then, is the cause of this sudden rise of the price of water? Only last week extended statements were inserted in all the newspapers of the city, as advertisements, by the Water Company, purporting to have been taken from its books, showing the receipts of the company for water to be so large as to make the purchase of the works a most excellent investment at $300,000. Whereas an eminent civil and hydraulic engineer, after a careful investigation, says the works could be put up new for a little over $180,000. Here, then, is an investment of $150,000 producing an income equal to 12 per cent. per annum on $300,000, and still the proprietors propose to advance the water rate six hundred and fifty per cent. above the present charge.

This action of the Water Company is explainable only by reference to the city election on the 16th instant. A proposition to sell the water works to the city for $300,000 was submitted to the people. The Company made most vigorous exertions to secure the acceptance of the proposition, but it was rejected by a large popular majority. We do not blame them for this. They desired to sell their works at that price, and as tax-payers of the city they had the right to use all lawful means to persuade the people into making the purchase. But the people, wisely as we think, decided not to pay the price demanded. And the Company, exhibiting a school-boyish spite, demands seven and a half prices for water as a mode of getting even.

This conduct is scarcely in keeping with the character of a high-toned and liberal-spirited enterprise. The people of the city have a right to exercise their independent judgment upon the question of taxing themselves to buy the Company's works, and when they decided not to do so, they did nothing to warrant this attempt at extortion by a Company which, through the indulgence of the city, enjoys a monopoly of the water supply.

And the sequel will most likely prove that this ungraceful conduct on the part of the Company is as short-sighted, from a business point of view, as it is out of taste. It cannot be expected that the citizens will patiently bear this extortion, though they may have to submit to it for a time. The city will yet own its water works. We venture the assertion—and we have conversed with a great many persons on the subject within the last two days—that a proposition to incur an indebtedness even larger than that proposed at the late election, would to-day receive a very large majority of the votes of the tax-payers of the city, if its purpose were to build water works, good and sufficient ones, instead of purchasing works that are wholly insufficient, at a price fifty per cent. above their actual value. This manifestation of ill-temper by the Water Company will hardly incline public sentiment toward a more favorable position on the question of buying the old works.

While the question of the value of these works is under discussion, we would call the attention of the city and county assessor to the matter. On the showing of the company the works should be assessed for $225,000 at least. A lower assessment is not just to the other tax-payers of the city. This is seventy-five per cent of their value, and is quite as low as other property is assessed. The bonded indebtedness of the company being out of the State, cannot be deducted from the value of its property. This, together with an assessment at the same rate on the property of the gas company, would be quite a relief to the other tax-payers.

A queer "clergy" is that of Gautemala—a clergy, perhaps, after the most approved model of Friar Tuck, who could wield a quarter stave and roar a merry roundelay, or drink a stoup of wine with the merriest of Robin's buccaneers of the greenwood. E. G.: we hear from that thief-infested province of South America that "the late guerilla warfare in the mountain districts, under the auspices of the clergy, which was a source of great annoyance and expense to the government, and which gave rise to a feeling of insecurity in the country, has been completely suppressed." A nation beleaguered by priests, armed with the carnal weapons of warfare, has a good right to a "feeling of insecurity."

The gospel of the meek and lowly Nazarene furnishes an equation for determining the infinitesimal mean quantity of Christianity contained in the souls of such men as the author of the following, which is taken from the Church Herald's (English paper) leader on the death of John Stuart Mill: "The sooner these 'lights of thought' who agree with him go to the same place, the better it will be for both Church and State. We can well spare the whole crew of them, and shall hear of their departure, one by one or in a body, with calm satisfaction." When we think of such human chaff as this Church Herald fanatic, we are the more intensely glad for the golden grain of the life and thought of John Stuart Mill.

The expulsion from Mexico of a number of priests, by the government, has caused a hot discussion among the journals of the capital. As we have before said, the arrest of the priests is considered a clear indication of the unwillingness of the President to protect the church party. Three sick foreign priests, were permitted to remain, giving bonds to leave immediately upon their recovery. The nuns found an asylum in private houses.

Job Stevenson, ex Congressman from the Second Ohio District, tells what he knows about "Credit Mobilier in the Forty-Second Congress" in a 10 page pamphlet. Job was loud in his denunciation of the perturbations of his unfortunate fellow Congressmen. As he was foremost in pushing the famous investigation, he should be able to tell us something interesting.

They have held their regular quotidian election for President in South America. It's Gautemala this time, and General Barrios is the unfortunate wretch.

[illegible] Law [illegible] San Francisco.

[illegible] Law of Probate has long been regarded by the legal profession of this coast as a standard authority for those States wherein the code has been adopted. The code of California was framed after the model of the New York code, and is similar in most important respects to the codes of all those States that have statute Practice Acts for the [illegible] in the courts. This edition of the work will be welcomed by the profession, as it collates the progress made in the practice down to the present year with copious citations of authorities not only from the California Supreme Court, but from those of other States of the Union. The publishers have done their whole duty by the book, bringing it out in the highest style of printing and binding.

[illegible] Reader, by A. W. [illegible] M. D.

From the house of Bancroft & Co., we have also the first of a series of school readers. The whole course will consist of six volumes, to be numbered according to their respective grades as is usual with such works and will be designated as the "Pacific Coast Series." The author of this work is Dr. A. W. Patterson of Eugene City, but we have understood from some source that in the preparation of the work he was largely assisted by one of the most thorough practical teachers in the State.

One of the most difficult tasks in the business of book-making is to get up a text-book for the use of pupils in the primary studies. This little Oregon production seems to meet the case admirably, beginning with the simplest sentence words, and thence proceeding by gradual steps to more complicated forms of speech. But the most attractive feature of this little book is the beautiful illustrations that accompany each lesson.

If we may be allowed to utter an unprejudiced belief, in dialect, we will say that the individual who retains his grasp on a hot potato after his hand has been scorched, is "a dern fool." Such seems to be the case of Earl Russell, and certain English politicians who have been holding the Irish hot potato for a number of years. There have been instances where Prime Ministers have been possessed of sufficient sagacity to transfer the fervid esculent to other cabinets. That is the highest grade of English statesmanship; to drop the question when they have been beaten—to resign. But Earl Russell has a patent medicine for Irish woes which is quite certain to work (like the astute donkey)—backwards. This bill provides for the abolition of the office of the Lord Lieutenant, and makes the voice of eight jurors out of eleven, sufficient for a verdict. We are told that the object of the measure is "to restrict the power of the priesthood and secure the conviction of criminals." It may result in convicting Lord Russell of the fact that there is one panacea for Irish wounds, cheaper and more efficacious than the rostrums of politicians; we mean Separation.

The paths to wealth are countless. There is Dr West, of Dover, Delaware, who, finding his genius cramped in a small State, insured his life for $25,000, and then decoyed a negro into his laboratory, stifled him with inhaling gas, skinned him and then blew up the laboratory. His plan was to abscond and let his disconsolate widow collect the insurance on his missing corpus. An incredulous court is trying to satisfy itself as to West's personal identity, and the luckless M. D. is likely to find that laboratories, with the devil for assistant, are quite as unsafe mints for coining money as they were in the days of Frankinstein.

In the Mobile Register's account of Decoration Day in that city, we find the following beautiful incident recorded. Upon the conclusion of Collector Reynolds' remarks, a beautiful bouquet of flowers, arranged in most exquisite taste, the blue and the gray being blended, was set upon the mound, with a card which read as follows:

THE MOBILE CADETS
OF THE CONFEDERATE ARMY,
HONOR THE MEMORY
OF THOSE WHO, THOUGH THEIR ENEMIES IN WAR,
WERE MEN,
AND BRAVE ENOUGH TO DO THEIR DUTY.

Here's another little Sunday Sunday boy who has brought consternation and dismay upon lambs and lambkins by his stupid wit. Senator Scott, of Pennsylvania, while addressing a Sunday School, the other day, asked his little auditors why Simon was kept in prison. One of the teachers quietly prompted a boy to say that it was for a hostage, and the youth, not quite catching the words, piped out: "He was detained for postage." Served the teacher right for her dishonesty in prompting her half-witted victim.

We were shown yesterday several interest coupons of the Idaho Territorial bonds, with certificate of their protest by a Notary. These coupons fell due—some of them—in June, 1872, and others in December. They have been protested for non-payment. The citizens of that youthful and rich Territory should see to it that their credit is redeemed at the earliest practicable moment.

We notice announcement of the death of the Right Rev. Alexander Ewing, LL. D., D. C. L., Bishop of Argyle and the Isles. The reverend prelate was the eldest son of Mr Ewing, of Sheelagreen, Aberdeenshire, and was born in 1815. He was consecrated Bishop of Argyle in 1847. He was a venerable man and vastly esteemed in private life.

A week or two since, our dispatches told us that the contract with Morgan & Co., of Springfield, for postal cards, had been abrogated. Later advices inform us that the Postmaster General has concluded not to abrogate the contract at present. He will give the contractors time to obtain better paper and continue the work.

The Government has disposed in all of $270,000,000 of the new five per cent. loan, of which $70,000,000 have been negotiated under the last syndicate arrangement. It is supposed that by the first of September, over $300,000,000 will have been negotiated. The total amount of the five per cent loan is [illegible].

There is a sharp point to this little squib, which is now going the rounds: "Uncle Sam should discard the eagle and adopt the raccoon—it has so many rings in its tail."

The Macon Telegraph gives this dawning post conversation: "Well, Jim, the world owes me a living anyhow." To which Jim replied: "Well, George, perhaps it does, but I'll be d—d if you ain't too lazy to collect it."

An Illinois editor speaks of an "eighty-year old octogenarian in this town, who has seen the snows of three score-years-and-ten. What was the matter with his eyes the other ten years?

The New Northwest's Article on Senator Mitchell.

We cheerfully give place to the article from the New Northwest, mentioned yesterday morning, in reference to our Senator, in compliance with the request of the editor of that paper. We are heartily glad to have Mrs. Duniway's disavowal of any intention to apologize for the Senator's course. On a re-examination of her article, however, we cannot but think her positive disavowal is quite necessary in order to enable the average reader to be aware that she intended it as an "exhortation" rather than as an "apology."

In the primitive days of art, it was customary for the artist to write under his pictures "This is a Horse," "This is a House," &c. It would have saved us from making a painful mistake, if a label had been attached to the article in our sprightly contemporary with the words, "This is an Exhortation." But here is the article:

REPENTANCE AND RESTITUTION.

The dark stories in circulation in regard to Senator Mitchell, having recently become coextensive with our National literature, we feel it obligatory upon us as a journalist to comment upon them, though the slightest allusion to the matter gives us great pain. Of course, all sorts of sensational rumors are afloat in the newspapers and on the streets, many of which are the idlest gossip of vulgar scandal-mongers; yet the press, the people, and especially Mr. Mitchell's constituents, bear in mind the fact that the highest duty of humanity is to accord all possible motives of good to every other human being, compatible with public and private safety.

The accusation that Mr. Mitchell is a defaulter, in direct opposition to the positive declarations of his business partner to the contrary, partakes of the nature of downright persecution, and his enemies who fling this flimsy pretext in the people's faces, only injure themselves by the act. Then the brandishing before the public, under flaming headlines, the gossiping twaddle of irresponsible and sensational reporters, smacks more of demagoguery than statesmanship. We had hoped that journalism had exhausted itself in this direction in its futile efforts to overslaugh the Woman Movement, but in this it seems we were mistaken.

Then the alleged crime of taking refuge behind the maiden name of his mother in the "dejection and sorrow" of which Mr. Mitchell so frankly tells, is not to our mind a crime, whether considered morally or legally. It is simply a very natural thing for a son to do, and had Mr. Mitchell gone to our State Legislature and had the name legalized, or would he do so yet, he could look all men and women in the face with the proud consciousness of having fulfilled the whole requirement of our statutes in that direction. Legally, as the matter now stands, it is indeed a "blunder" and a "foolish mistake" which he can in this way rectify at his earliest opportunity.

The accusations of adultery, desertion and bigamy, with which our unfortunate Senator is so vigorously assailed, coming as they do from his personal and political enemies, we do not propose to seriously discuss at present, as we wish always to consider everybody innocent until proven guilty. If the accused Senator is guilty of the crimes his enemies charge him with, he is amenable to law, and the men and newspapers who circulate these stories, should, instead of stooping to vulgar gossip to blacken his reputation, see at once that he is indicted by the grand jury for these crimes, and, if guilty, made to suffer for them.

This much is proved, however, by Mr. Mitchell's confession: He has received the highest office in the gift of the Oregon people under circumstances that reflect discredit upon his friends, who frankly admit that they have been deceived. As a leader in the Woman Movement we personally exerted an influence in his behalf that, if used against him, would have insured his defeat, and if he does not disappoint us politically we shall not regret it. If women have suffered socially by his acts or connivance, and he has repented of all the wrong he has done them, let him now make restitution by becoming the special champion of the rights of all women. Let him use his position as United States Senator to engraft upon the nation's archives the principles of equality and justice. In short, let his Senatorial career be one continued grand atonement to all womanhood for the errors of his youth. Thus may restitution follow in the wake of repentance, and his riper years, crowned by deeds of atonement, stimulate others to renounce social sins and thus make amends for the wrongs inflicted by them upon women who have been their victims because of adverse circumstances. Let him demand for women an equal show with men in the race for success in life, rising above self in the nobleness of his innate magnanimity, and he shall find that "a life's labor" will bring its own high reward—a guerdon that shall silently rebuke the maudlin sentimentality that gives woman sympathy in lieu of justice, and "hush money" or bribes instead of opportunity equal with man for self-protection.

Man's extremity is God's opportunity. And as never before was mortal man placed in position of equal humiliation in high places, so never before did like opportunity present itself for turning that very humiliation into a crowning deed of public justice, such as shall cause mothers in the coming years, when the sod shall have grown green over the narrow home that shall mark his last resting place, to lead their little ones to the spot, and, while teaching them to lisp his name, in their own hearts thank God that J. H. Mitchell lived to aid in a great moral struggle, by a personal atonement. Will our Senator not use this golden opportunity to prove repentance by restitution?

Answer to "Dairyman."

HILLSBORO, June 20, 1873.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN:

Will our irascible neighbor from Clatsop, who signs himself as dealer in chalk and water, hold still a minute until we can explain? The gentleman's brain is certainly muddled. We have searched the OREGONIAN of the 14th, and have not been able to find the article alluded to. An item was published, however, noticing the meeting of the Board of Directors, and also mentioning the facts that efforts were being made to raise a private premium of $50 cash for the best short-horn bull and long-wooled sheep. It was mentioned also that a small premium would be given for the best gallon of "buttermilk." This item should have read, if it does not (to conform to the original)—"The boys also offer a small premium for the best gallon of buttermilk."

All these premiums are offered by private parties, and not by the Society, and so far as the buttermilk goes, the boys have actually raised a subscription and they propose to drink their fill, and pay to the party producing the gallon that suits their gullet the best the hard cash. Should our friend from the classic hills of Clatsop come up and meet with us, we promise that no harm shall befall him, at least from the "buttermilk brigade." And now, we say again, these are private premiums, and the Society is not responsible, nor are the committees on whey going to get a smell even. And save the slight omission in setting up, the boys don't even hold that the OREGONIAN has any claims to the "buttermilk" whatever, only through courtesy of the printer's devil.

ONE OF THE BOYS.

Letter from Mrs. Duniway.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN:

I am astonished to see in your issue of this morning, the astounding declaration that the New Northwest has become an "apologist" for defalcation, bigamy, adultery, desertion and so forth. Had such an accusation come from an enemy, I should have editorially flogged him and let him go; but I cannot account for it as coming from the OREGONIAN upon any other plea than that its editor read a part, only, of the article entitled "Repentance and Retribution," and made his deductions from the introduction instead of the argument.

I [illegible] certainly [illegible] man to hang him," and it is equal to ruin us to [illegible] a man in high places and then, because we had we have been deceived as to his early life and character, cut off the opportunity for him to make restitution by our own direct ostracism. This is the only "defense" I have to make for Mr. Mitchell, and as you have, as I believe and hope, unwittingly placed me before your readers in a false and unenviable light, I now, in common with many of your friends and in some what feel aggrieved, request you to make restitution by publishing in the OREGONIAN the article from the New Northwest, which I call an "exhortation" and you call an "apology," that wherever the bane may go the antidote may follow.

Yours for the right,
MRS. A. J. DUNIWAY.

Attorney-General Williams' Opinion on the Modoc Question.

The New York Tribune discusses "The Question of Captain Jack" in a long leading article, from which we take the subjoined:

We have no disposition to quarrel with the elaborate reasons of the Attorney-General for deciding that the Modoc prisoners are amenable to military law. Judge Williams himself has furnished the best of arguments against his own opinion. He has presented to General Grant a summary of the Modoc troubles, and this short narrative puts in the clearest possible light the absurdity of dignifying the recent operations among the lava beds by the name of war. The Government undertook to remove a small band of savages to a reservation. They resisted, massacred a number of settlers, and finally intrenched themselves among the rocks and caverns, shooting down the soldiers from ambush, and murdering the Commissioners who attempted to treat with them for surrender. In short, they were mere outlaws and marauders, no more entitled to belligerent rights than so many ruffians escaped from Sing Sing. There can be no war except between independent nations, or a government and its revolted subjects. To recognize the sovereign character of a band of two-score Digger Indians is preposterous, to treat their plundering and scalping expeditions as a rebellion is not less so. We have never granted them the status of independence, therefore they cannot declare war against us as a foreign power. We have never looked upon them as component parts of our political system, therefore, they cannot rebel. And yet the Attorney General proposes to regard them as prisoners of war, and to try them by court martial for violating the regulations and usages of civilized hostility. He may answer that jayhawkers, bandits, etc., are subject to military law, so they are, if they are caught in time of war, and on the territory occupied by the hostile armies, but when there is no war they are amenable to the civil courts.

Practically it makes very little difference to Captain Jack whether he is tried by an Oregon court or a military commission. The fate of that celebrated leader, and of several of his principal followers, is already decided. But though Gen. Davis may inflict summary punishment upon the assassins of Gen. Canby, it is not easy to see how, by the extremest stretching of military jurisdiction, he can take cognizance of the massacre which preceded the operations of the army. If those crimes are not to be punished under the laws of the State they cannot legally be punished at all. "A military commission," says the Attorney-General, "may be appointed to try such of the Modoc Indians now in custody as are charged with offenses against the recognized laws of war"—that is to say, the murderous attack upon the negotiators treating with them under a flag of truce. Beyond that, the military commission may not go. Probably only a small part of the band can be convicted of this offense, and if the others should be set free we may expect some pretty vigorous protests from the white settlers.

The Herald says that "the philanthropists thought there was no law under which these treacherous murderers (Modocs) could be hanged, and Attorney-General Williams was asked for an opinion on the question. He has answered it sooner than was expected and in a way that will give satisfaction to the country." The Times says.

The opinion of the Attorney General is based on the assumption of a state of war existing between the United States and the Modocs, although he admits that the relations of the Indian tribes to the Government are difficult to determine. There will doubtless be some dissent from the assumption of Mr. Williams, but that being granted his reasoning is conclusive. To consider these Indians as prisoners of war seems to us to persist in a policy which has had only mischievous results, and we believe that the idea upon which the peace policy is based would have been better served if they had been turned over to the civil authorities. But the method of the Attorney-General secures the desired end of the punishment of the Modoc murderers, and there will not be much disposition to question the means.

The Water Question.

PORTLAND, June 20, 1873.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN:

In view of the singular attitude of affairs between the Portland Water Company and the city, and the demand of the company for seven hundred and fifty dollars per month for the same supply of water it has heretofore furnished for one hundred dollars per month, I beg leave to suggest, through your columns:

First. Has not the city government the legal power to take from the company's mains, such amount of water as may be necessary for public use, allowing therefor a reasonable compensation, to be assessed and allowed by a jury? Is not this a case for the taking of private property for public use, under the constitution of the State?

Second. Ought not the Common Council to take such steps immediately, as will result in having this compensation to be paid for water, determined according to law, before the expiration of the existing contract with the company?

Third. If nothing can be done in this way to avoid the payment of the enormous demand of the Water Company, would it not be cheaper for the city to fill the cisterns from the river by means of one of its steam fire engines, taking water from the mains of the company only in case of the cisterns being exhausted at the time of a fire, in which case the right to take private property for public use would be clear and incontrovertible?

These suggestions are offered with the hope that some one competent to answer them intelligently, will deem them sufficiently important to justify a response, and that if the question of water supply can be solved in this way it may be.

Yours truly,
LEN.

Liberation of France.

The following important notification was published in the Journal Official of Paris, a short time since, informing the nation of the approach of the day when France shall be released from Prussian authority. The document was written by order of M. Thiers:

A treaty for the evacuation of the French territory, the fruit of long negotiations, was signed at Berlin on the evening of the 15th of March, 1873, at five o'clock. The Government would have liked the National Assembly to be the first informed of this happy event, but that course was impossible, as the telegraphic message expected from the Prussian capital only arrived at Versailles at seven. Every one is aware that the Government has been able to fulfill with an unhoped for rapidity the financial engagements which from motives of prudence, it had only entered into for a distant date.

Of the three milliards which remained to be paid to Germany one was entirely discharged last Autumn. The second, a great part of which has already been paid, will be completely so between the 1st and 5th of May next. The third and last milliard (the fifth of the entire indemnity), will be delivered to the German Treasury in four equal payments—on the 5th of June, 5th of July, 5th of August and 5th of September of the present year.

In return, the Emperor of Germany has engaged:—To evacuate, on the 5th of July [illegible], the four departments—Vosges, Ardennes, Meuse and Meurthe-et-Moselle—as well as the fortress and arrondissement of Belfort. The evacuation is to be effected within four weeks from that date. As a pledge for the last two monthly payments [illegible] military district [illegible] be occupied until the 5th of September [illegible] shall be evacuated within two weeks from [illegible].

Such are the conditions of the new treaty, which were [illegible] discussed and which, in spite of [illegible] we have no doubt, the patriotism of all good citizens.

Boy to lady visitor:—"Teacher, there's a [illegible] there a winkin at me." Teacher—"Well then, don't look at her." Boy—"But if I don't look at her she'll wink at somebody else."

Ten thousand pounds of wool were bought at Salem the past week at 21@22 cents per pound.

The examination was concluded yesterday. Next week the exhibition and closing exercises of this Academy will take place.

[illegible] AWAY.—So rapidly is the water of the Columbia rising, and the aspects of a general [illegible] are so threatening, that many [illegible] who reside along the river are moving their houses and seeking safety in more elevated localities among the hills. Dwelling [illegible] surrounded with green orchards and small [illegible], which but a few weeks ago stood high and dry above, to all appearances, the possible reach of the water, are now submerged. [illegible] invasion not only inconveniences persons who are required to temporarily change their homes, but it works serious damage to fruit and berry crops. Berry gathering has been stopped in many places in consequence of the [illegible] of the freshet. No damage [illegible] to the plants themselves, but rather a [illegible], as the deposits left on the ground after the [illegible] of the waters tend to materially enrich the soil. The crops which remain under water are of course worthless after the recession of the [illegible], and the owners are thus made [illegible]. Should the river continue to rise, it [illegible] the damage which will consequently result is not only the fruit, but to grain and grass crops, will be considerable. Large tracts of land, now in cultivation, will be inundated. Growing grain that left submerged in water for any length of time [illegible] tangled, falls to the ground, and [illegible] is scarcely worth harvesting. [illegible] of cattle which have been kept on the [illegible] islands down the Columbia, are [illegible] for the safety of their stock, and are engaged in removing them to places of safety. It appears to be the generally received [illegible] that should several weeks of extremely warm weather follow, an unprecedentedly high stage of water will prevail on the Columbia and [illegible] rivers.

OVERHAULING.—The boiler formerly used on the steamer Enterprise, wrecked [illegible] months ago at the mouth of the Umpqua [illegible], and brought up to this port on a sailing vessel, is now at the Willamet Iron Works and will be overhauled at once. This boiler, as previously stated, will be used on the new steamer, the contract for the construction of which has recently been let by the W. R. T. Company. Constant use for a number of years has not [illegible] or worn the boiler to scarcely a noticeable extent, and it will be [illegible] as good as new when turned out from the works. [illegible] the heavy seas which immediately followed the loss of the Enterprise, the shell of the boiler sustained some damage by being [illegible] from side to side by old Neptune. [illegible] the rough handling the boiler was considerably [illegible] up, but not broken. After the [illegible] went to pieces, the boiler was buried in the sand for some time. Action of the surf [illegible] it completely full of sand, and [illegible] labor that the ponderous [illegible] was unearthed, moved beyond the reach of the sea and the sand, which had been solidly [illegible] and the fire box, and tubes removed. [illegible] could be accomplished it was necessary [illegible] in twain about the middle, and to [illegible] the tubes. At the foundry the boiler will be thoroughly overhauled, the shell strongly bolted [illegible], shortened, and the tubes placed in. [illegible] will be required to perform this work, [illegible] the boiler and engines will be ready by the time the new hull is ready for their reception.

NEW WAREHOUSES.—A gentleman who arrived in the city yesterday from up the valley, gives us the following information concerning what the [illegible] of Benton county are doing on the subject [illegible]. At Corvallis excavation for a large warehouse was commenced last Monday morning. The new structure will be 30x90 feet and 12 feet high. Recently the farmers purchased the warehouse belonging to Messrs Moore and St. Clair. The new structure will be attached to the old warehouse. When completed, the consolidated warehouses will have a capacity of 75,000 bushels of grain. We learn a contract has been entered into between the farmers and the Willamette River Transportation Company by which all the grain stored in this warehouse the present season, will be shipped to Portland on the Company's steamers. Near the [illegible] of the classic Long Tom, [illegible] distance above Corvallis, the farmers of that locality are busily engaged in the construction of a warehouse on the bank of the river, which will have a capacity of 40,000 bushels. This structure will be completed before harvest, as work is [illegible] vigorously ahead. At Springhill in [illegible] county, about five miles below Albany, the [illegible] along Soap Creek have just finished a large [illegible], with a capacity of 20,000 bushels. [illegible] unmistakable indications that the [illegible] have awakened to a lively [illegible] interests, and their example promises to be contagious.

[illegible] DAY.—Mr. A. B. Hallock received a [illegible] days ago from Seneca Falls, New York, [illegible] date of June 23. The letter contained a bill of lading and also the information that the splendid new second class fire engine, [illegible] months since by the Common Council [illegible] Engine Co. No 2, had been shipped by rail that day for Portland via San Francisco. It was expected to arrive at the latter city on the 24th inst. If the proper connections [illegible], the engine will be shipped for Portland by the [illegible] steamer that will sail on the 28th of the month. It is confidently expected that the new engine will arrive before the 4th of July. The other engines which were subsequently [illegible] from Seneca Falls for Columbian No 3 and Willamette No. 1, are expected to be [illegible] some time in August. These [illegible] may not therefore be expected to [illegible] here before the 1st of September. The [illegible] parade and ceremonies which take place at the "housing" of a new engine, will probably not be held on the arrival of No. 2's new [illegible]. The affair will be postponed until the other two engines arrive from the East, when the three will be formally "housed" at one time, with [illegible] pageantry and ceremonies

STEAMER SHOSHONE PURCHASED.—The O S N Co's steamer Shoshone, which was brought down over the Cascades last week from the Upper Columbia, was sold yesterday by that Company to the Willamette River Transportation Company. Terms being private, we are not authorized to state the price paid. The Shoshone is in good running condition, having been overhauled throughout, a few months ago, at the Dalles. She is one of the most available boats on the river, being staunch enough to weather the rough waters between this city and Astoria, and is sufficiently light draught to run as far as Eugene City. The machinery is a[illegible] new and powerful, which, with the addition of a bandwheel, will render the Shoshone a fast boat. Arrangements are completed so that this steamer will leave her wharf for the upper Wallamet on next Monday morning. This will be her maiden attempt to navigate the Wallamet above Portland. There can be no doubt but what the Shoshone will acquit herself with credit, and make the ascent and descent with entire safety, after her long and venturesome navigation on the Upper Columbia and Snake rivers

CLUB MEETINGS.—This evening at 7 30 o'clock, the Neptune Rowing Club and Portland Yacht Club will meet at the Police Court Room for the [illegible] of important business. This being the case, a full attendance is desirable.

TO BE "SEWERED."—For many months past the wretched sanitary condition of Stark street has been the subject of numerous uncharitable paragraphs in the daily press of the city. Of late, finding that critical remarks as to the condition of the aforesaid street tended in nowise to remove the pungent odors and intolerable exhalations which constantly emanated from that locality, the matter was dropped as if by common consent. Months ago the Common Council ordered the improvement of that street, but work has been delayed until the tile sewers could be manufactured. We learn that at last the necessary amount of tile has been made and work will soon be commenced on the street. Mr John L Parker has the contract for putting down the sewer on Stark street from Third to the river. He filed his bonds on Friday. The sewer is to be of terra cotta, made of the ordinary potter's clay, at Buena Vista, in Polk county, and glazed. Work will be commenced as soon as the water subsides and pushed to completion. The improvement of this street will be an event over which the public should rejoice. Its filthy condition has long been a public eye-sore

NEW CHURCH EDIFICE.—A new church building 26x40 feet will soon be erected on the Cornell road about ten miles northwest of the city, by the members of the First German Presbyterian Church of Bethanian. Under the charge of Rev Mr. Gaue, a church was organized at the point mentioned last February, and at the last session of the State Presbytery, it was taken under the care of that body. The church has acquired in a few months quite a large membership. In that locality a large colony of Swiss and Germans have settled most of whom have attached themselves to the church. Prospects are encouraging at present for building up a flourishing membership. Lumber for the new structure was hauled on the ground the present week, and a number of carpenters will begin work on Monday morning. Within a few months the edifice will be finished and ready for dedication

PURCHASED.—The elegant steamer Annie Stewart, which was brought up from San Francisco about three years ago by Messrs E Corbett, Capt J M Gilman and Capt Wm Turnbull, with the intention of putting her on the Lower Columbia as an opposition boat, was sold yesterday by her present owners, Messrs J. M Gilman and E Corbett to the Oregon Steam Navigation Company. We are unable to state what price was paid, the terms being private. As yet, we have not been informed when or where the Annie Stewart will run. She is among the largest and finest crafts owned at present by the Company.

TERMINUS TO BE LOCATED.—The Commercial Reporter says: "Judge R. D Rice, Vice President of the Northern Pacific Railroad Company, left San Francisco overland for Portland, June 13th. Upon his arrival he and Captain J C Ainsworth will proceed to Puget Sound, for the purpose of locating the final terminus, on the Sound, of the Northern Pacific Railroad. While there they will take into consideration several subjects which, without doubt, will materially advance the commercial interests of our city. After their return, Capt. Ainsworth will assume the business management of the road on this coast.

AT THE WHARF.—The schooner Margaret Crockard arrived at the wharf yesterday morning from Astoria in tow of the tug Varuna. This vessel came from San Francisco with a full cargo of assorted merchandise. Seven days were required to make the passage from San Francisco to the mouth of the Columbia, which would indicate a moderately fair voyage. The schooner is discharging cargo at Flanders' wharf. She belongs to the new line of C D Morrison & Co', and will carry away a cargo of lumber.

STEAMED UP AND DOWN.—Yesterday a short time after the sale and purchase of the steamers Annie Stewart and Shoshone by the respective companies, O. S. N. Co, and W. R T Co., each boat steamed up and changed places as well as owners. The Shoshone moved from the wharf at the foot of Ash street up to the foot of Alder, the Annie Stewart moved from her mooring at Carter's wharf down to the O. S. N. Company's dock.

HULL RAISED.—The hull of the little schooner Mila Bond, wrecked many months ago off Tillamook Head, has been raised from the beach where she was stranded and is being repaired. The little craft belongs to Capt. Paul Corno, who is superintending the work in person. Everything will be in sailing trim soon, and in a few weeks the Mila Bond will be on her way from Tillamook to this port.

DISCHARGING COAL.—The steamer California was hauled alongside the Gas Company's wharf yesterday morning, and is at present discharging coal, of which her cargo mainly consists. In consequence of the lower wharf being about fifteen feet under water the coal is being landed in the upper. Even the second story of the wharf will soon be below water mark if the river continues its upward march.

FIRST SHIPMENT.—Mr James Quinn shipped on the Ajax one thousand pounds of fresh salmon to the San Francisco market. This is the first shipment of the kind ever made from this State to California. The scarcity of fresh salmon in the San Francisco markets warrant further shipments.

NOT PARADE.—At a recent meeting held by the Board of Foremen it was determined not to parade on the Fourth of July.

MEETING OF COMMITTEE.

Pursuant to announcement, the Committee of Arrangements for the celebration of the Fourth of July met last evening at Armory Hall

The Committee on Music reported that they had engaged three bands for the coming celebration—the 21st Infantry, East Portland and Portland Brass Bands. A drum corps had also been engaged.

The Committee on Fireworks reported that Prof Hughes had been engaged to manufacture $1,000 worth of pyrotecnics for the display in the evening.

A communication was read from the Secretary of the Neptune Rowing and Portland Yacht Clubs. PRESIDENT GRANT AND FAMILY AT LONG BRANCH

LONG BRANCH, June 6.—The President and his family arrived here by special train from Washington at fifteen minutes past five this afternoon, in a Pullman palace car. The President's baggage had been arriving all day. Eight furniture wagons have been driven down Ocean avenue to the President's cottage, containing the Federal baggage. Four carriages and a buggy had been towed in the train of furniture wagons, comprising a seaside phaeton for Miss Nelly, a two seat buggy for the President and a friend, the huge high backed English carriage for the united family, a dog-cart for the boys, a modest rockaway for Mrs Grant's accommodation, and a solitary cow had been led by the horns to the scene of Presidential summering, while the seven magnificent horses of the President, including "St Louis," the new Missouri colt which the President had found on his St. Louis farm, "Cincinnati," his old war horse "Bashaw," "Maid," "York," an unnamed mare and two bay horses for driving in the family carriage, had been led or driven to their seaside stabling. The furniture wagons contained enough, apparently, to fill a couple of such Swiss cottages as the President resides in, and combined all varieties of household furniture, from tete-a-tetes and sociables to flower pots and soap-boxes. The seaside villa during the day was under the control of half a dozen servants, who were "putting it to rights," and by the time the Federal party arrived it was in comfortable trim for their reception.

THE PRESIDENT'S ARRIVAL.

It was in the midst of a cold, drizzling rain that the Presidential party alighted from the special car at the Long Branch depot. A crowd of curious Jerseymen awaited the expected dignitaries, and craned their necks forward to see for the twentieth time the chief magistrate of the country. The President's own carriage, which had arrived only a few hours before, was on hand, with two prancing bays and a proud colored driver, awaiting their arrival. The President debarked with his family and friends amid the drizzling rain, took refuge at once under the shelter of the depot, entered the carriage in waiting, buttoned the curtains all around and sped away at a rattling pace for home. In the carriage with the President were Mrs Grant, their daughter Nellie, Mr Dent, Sr, and Ulysses Grant, Jr. General Babcock, Messrs. Benjamin and Bailey, of whom no particulars can be ascertained, except that Benjamin is an officer in the Gas Works in Washington and Baily being entirely unassigned, and the housekeeper of the cottage, a colored woman, entered a carriage provided by Governor Morris, of Long Branch, and followed in the wake of the President

THE GENERAL, MRS GRANT AND MISS NELLY

The President wore his customary suit of solemn black, with stove-pipe hat, and looked stern as usual having a rather florid color in his face. Mrs Grant also wore black and looked unusually handsome and pleasant—glad, doubtless, to once more return to the seaside. Miss Nelly looked charming, as a reigning belle of the day should, and wore a traveling linen duster over her dress. The seaside cottage was found all in condition, and the Presidential party rested there, content to put up with a few inconveniences incident to moving for the night. Long Branch had been all day expecting the distinguished coterie, and the hotels, as yet hardly aspiring to anything more pretentious than roomy inns, had all their guests in their array on the piazzas to hail the Chief, and flags were flying from all the flagstaffs along the bluff.

OCEAN AVENUE WAS PEOPLED,

So far as the present limited population of Long Branch will permit, with the seaside butterflies of fashion to greet the great attraction, and the caravan of furniture wagons was assailed by eager inquiries as to the hour of the Presidential arrival. The driving rain storm, which ruffles the bosom of old ocean so angrily to night, drove the butterflies to their cosy retreats, and when the President and his family drove by, nestled under the water proof coverings of their carriages, not a human being along the dreary line of seemingly deserted hotels knew who was passing

West Point Life

A correspondent in attendance on the cadet examinations at West Point writes

The "plebes" are about forgotten. Their examination is over, and they are settling down to the four year's work. Those who failed may charge most of their errors to bad grammar and forgotten geography. In geography the ignorance manifested was astonishing. One young man located the Bay of Fundy between Greenland and Labrador, and made it celebrated as the head of the Gulf Stream. Another youth, probably from the West, informed the Board that the New-England States were Europe, Asia, Africa, and Madagascar. If the "found" boys still cherish a military ambition they will have to receive a reappointment or be recommended by the Board for re-examination in September, when the vacancies will be filled

Late in the afternoon a cavalry drill was given on the plain before the Secretary of War and the Board of Visitors. The spectators were seated under the trees, with a perfect arsenal of umbrellas, which served to keep off rain and sun. The dust had been laid by the rain, so that annoyance was not added to this most uninteresting of all drills. The cadets of the first class in their gray uniforms composed the first squadron under command of Capt Alfred E. Bates. For an hour they showed how near man can approach to the typical centaur by sticking to their horse's back in all the maneuvers that cavalry can perform—advancing in line and platoon and column, wheeling to the right and left at quick time and at the double quick to the satisfaction of their commanders and the admiration of the spectators. It was even exciting at times, when headlong charges were made the length of the plain, each cadet urging his steed with voice and spur to his fastest pace, while those looking on expected every moment to see some cadet fly over his horse's head into the dust. Occasionally a saddle would slip or a girth loosen, and oblige the rider to dismount with undignified haste, but with no serious consequences, except that in one of the furious charges a cadet was thrown from his horse and stunned. He was soon restored, however, and carried to the hospital.

SALEM CORRESPONDENCE

SALEM, June 17, 1873.

[illegible]

The late rain has proven to be more of detriment to the farming community than of benefit, as there has been a great quantity of wheat blown down [illegible] destroying [illegible] east [illegible] [illegible] not one tenth of the crop will be [illegible] that it gave promise of a few days ago. I learn that the storm extended south into Douglas county, where it damaged a considerable amount of hay the half [illegible] but [illegible] early grain and fresh cut hay, the rain will prove of great benefit to the late sown grain

This [illegible] the [illegible] presented [illegible] have been [illegible] with strangers from all parts of the State. First came the

AGRICULTURAL STATE CONVENTION,

Which met in this city on the 10th inst and was attended by the most influential and solid farmers of the Willamet valley and their [illegible] to unite them more firmly in the common cause. The proceedings were of a harmonious character, and were [illegible] against monopolists, and in [illegible] and [illegible] their numbers and determinations were made known. The Convention effected a permanent organization, and is now prepared to enter upon its beneficial work. During the same time the

STATE SABBATH SCHOOL CONVENTION

Was holding its session in the First Presbyterian Church in this city. Although it did not attract as much attention as the Farmers Convention, they held an interesting session, and great [illegible] of doing great good in its particular field. In conversation with several gentlemen who attended, they spoke very enthusiastically of the [illegible] object and prospects, also paying our fellow townsman, Hon C N Terry, a high compliment for the ease and ability which he displayed while presiding over its deliberations

The June term of our

CIRCUIT COURT

Commenced its regular term with a very large docket, the heaviest case being that of A R Whitley, who has become somewhat celebrated through the Dallas shooting scrape, in which he had a son killed. There were about one hundred persons summoned as witnesses and the case created great interest in Polk county. There has one person already, and probably two more will, receive appointments as resident boarders at Hotel de Watkinds, which stands ready to receive all who may come.

Work is now being rapidly pushed forward on the foundation of the

STATE HOUSE

And large quantities of brick and stone are being brought there. The latter, from Roseburg, presents a beautiful appearance when dressed, and I am told that the probabilities that the foundation wall will be carried up several feet higher, as the stone is so much better than was at first supposed. There will be several blocks used as foundations for the columns which will be eight feet long, six feet wide and four feet thick, and which will be dressed at the quarry and then shipped to this place

The Commissioner who does the talking says he will have the amount appropriated spent by the time the next Legislature meets, or he will resign, which is not desired by 47.

KISSES SOLD.—Kisses are fast becoming an article of trade; in times past, it was said that "kissing went by favor," they now go for the highest bid. It is said that Pittsburgh girls go about selling church tickets for a quarter apiece, and if these terms are not satisfactory, they throw in a kiss. Rather cheap. Some years ago when efforts were being made to complete the Bunker Hill monument, the ladies of Boston gave a fair for the benefit of the fund. When one of the most lovely and accomplished daughters of the "hub" was stationed at her table, a sailor stood gazing at her like a boy into a confectioner's window with no money in his pocket.

"Can I sell you anything, my friend?" asked the belle with a bland smile

"In course you can, Miss," replied the tar, "I'll buy that 'ere baby's rigging for five dollars."

"Take it," replied the lady, laughing at the greenhorn, the article being worth less than half that amount.

"And—bless your pretty rosy cheeks," added Jack, twisting his quid about in his mouth—"I'll—I'll give you five dollars more for a kiss."

"Take it," said the patriotic beauty, pouting her lips, "it's all for the benefit of the monument fund."

Jack took the kiss, paid the $10, and proudly walked off with the baby clothes

Don't go about with shabby clothes while an opportunity is afforded you to obtain wearing apparel at only a nominal sum. You miss a splendid chance to get a suit of clothing cheap when you fail to call on J. Kohn & Co, [illegible] Front street, where the counters are crowded with the very latest styles. Twenty dollars will buy a fine outfit there

If you want pure fine liquors of any kind go to E D Tyner, northwest corner of Oak and First streets. Agent for the sale of Jessie Moore & Co's fine [illegible] and Rye Whiskies of Louisville Ky

"I say, Tom, that 's a nobby suit you have on. I declare I've been trying to get something that will fit me to a dot, and that I can depend on to wear well. Where did you buy them?" "I was passing along First street, between [illegible] and as I turned the corner of Washington street I noticed some fine clothing and furnishing goods. The attraction was so great that I stepped inside and after selecting the materials I ordered what may be termed an elegant fitting suit. The place is Fishel & Roberts."

The public mind has been somewhat agitated with the Modoc war, an occasional marine or railway disaster, and the dull times, and the prospect of buying clothing at a figure not large enough to clean a man to the bedrock. The place has been found where you can buy men and boy's clothing, or gentlemen's furnishing goods, at the very lowest prices. It is at Beck & Waldman's, corner of Front and Washington street, where a full assortment of men and boys' clothing, in the latest styles, can be selected from Outcast.

Was it a dream?
I walked one day down through a city's street.
The sun was shining dimly overhead,
While filth and vileness were beneath my feet,
And the houses on either side seemed red
To the bricks' core with wicked sins untold;
And there were sights so dread and manifold
Of want and suffering, of wretchedness
Of cursing and oath, of hunger pitiless,
And stench so foul, the very soul was sick,
And dared not harbor questions, crowding thick,
Of God's beneficence, and of His love.

And there, as through these sad'ning sights I strove,
Even there, upon a garbage heap, I spied
A rose-bud, thrown by scornful hands aside—
A rose bud that few days before had hung
Upon its parent tree, purest among
Its sisters sweet and fair. The dew had blessed
Its opening morn; its odors had caressed
The ambient air, and kissed the lips of those
Who bowed their lips to kiss the budding rose,
And then one said he loved it more than all,
And tore it from its stem (did I see fall
A rain drop?) and bore it on his breast away.

Ah! how it joyed to lie there through the day,
Bright with fragrant beauty, sweetly asking
Love for its love—sure 'twas no hard tasking.
But soon, its freshness gone, it knew its fate—
Alas! how many learn it later, too late!
And he who wore it merely that it shed
Its first sweet odors circling round his head,
And with its beauty graced him as he walked,
Nor loved it for its sake alone, when balked
Of these, soon tore it from his breast away,
And, careless of its fate, left it the play
And toy of who should care a moment's space
To please him with its fleeting, fading grace.
And so 'twas soon, when festering and forlorn,
And soiled and torn, of all pure men the scorn;
This bud so fair, so sweet, so loved the while,
This withered bud, so faded, bruised, and vile,
Was thrown upon the garbage heap, to yield
Its little earth to enrich some Potter's field.

With reverent hand I took it from the pile,
(I thought the heavens gave me back a smile;)
With reverent hand I brushed the filth away;
I gently pulled apart its petals fair.
And, even then, an odor faint but rare
Breathed from its inner heart and seemed to pray,
And colors bright and pure that heart disclosed
The rose-bud even yet contained the rose!
And then I thought 'twas wafted from my hand,
And blossomed full and sweet in Heaven's own land
Was it a dream? —Harper's Magazine.

WRONGFULLY ACCUSED.

I has been many a long day since then, yet I remember it all, just as though it had occurred but yesterday.

I was a carpenter, the foreman of a large establishment, and as such possessed the entire confidence of my employer, who, by the way, had been a schoolmate of mine.

One day he called me into his office to look at some rare coins he had just purchased.

"Here," said he, placing in my hand a heavy gold piece, "is one which is worth more than all the rest put together. It is a great curiosity. I paid $200 for it, and considered it cheap at that. I could easily double my money in selling it; and so you see Harvey, it is really a good investment."

"No doubt it is," said I, "though it seems a large sum to have lie idle."

I breathed an involuntary sigh as I laid the coin down on the desk, for $200 would have seemed a fortune to me just then.

The severe illness of my wife, and one of my children, and the death of another made serious inroads on my purse, and it had required the exercise of the utmost economy, to keep myself free from debt; nay, I had been obliged to withdraw from the bank the small sum, which, besides my salary, was all I possessed of worldly treasures. Thinking of this I laid the coin down with a sigh, and turned away to attend to my duties.

The next morning I was again summoned into the office, but this time I met with no such friendly greeting, as usual.

"Harry," said my employer, abruptly, "that coin we were looking at has disappeared. I have made a thorough search, but it is not to be found. It has been carried away by some one. You alone saw or knew of it, and—"

He paused and looked significantly into my face. I finished the sentence for him the hot blood dyeing my cheeks and brow as I spoke.

"You mean, therefore, that I took it—I!"

"What else can I think? The coin was here, you alone saw it. I cannot recall having seen it since it was in your hands. You are in need of money; you have told me that yourself. It was a great temptation, and I forgive you because of our old friendship, but I cannot retain you in my employ. Here is the salary due you."

"Very well," said I, with forced calmness, "so be it, since you have so poor an opinion of me after years of faithful service, I shall not stop to defend myself."

Then I took the money he had laid upon the desk, and went out from his presence a well-nigh broken-hearted man.

But for the tender love for my wife I doubt not but that I would have buried my sorrows in the grave of a suicide.

Supported by that love, however, and the consciousness of my own innocence, I took fresh courage, and set resolutely to work to find a new employer.

Powerful is a breath of slander; turn which way I might, I ever found that the story of my dismissal for theft had preceded me, and application for employment uniformly met with a refusal.

Time went on; piece by piece, our furniture, and every spare article of clothing, found its way to the pawn broker's, until at length, even this poor resource failed us, and my children cried in vain for food.

Yet I did not sit down in idle despair; I could not afford to do so; the life or death of all I loved on earth depended on my exertion and so turning away from them with a heavy heart, I once more set out on the weary search for work.

All in vain! refusal after refusal met my entreaties for employment, and I was turning homeward with a listless step, when passing an immense church I was attracted by a group of men at its base.

Impelled by some strange impulse, I approached and mingled with them.

A workman was standing near by, looking up at the great steeple, which towered aloft some 250 feet above them, while a gentleman, evidently an architect, was addressing him in earnest language, and at the same time pointing toward the golden cross at the summit of the spire.

"I tell you," he exclaimed, as I drew near, "it must and can be done. The cross must be taken down, or the first heavy gale will send it down into the street, and lives will be lost. Coward! is this the way you back out of a job after engaging to do it?"

"I didn't know the spire was so high up there. Do it yourself if you want it done!"

"I would if I were able," said the architect. "But go if you will; let it be! My honor is pledged to have it down at any price and I can find a braver man than you to do it."

The carpenter walked off with a dogged, slouching step, and the gentleman was about to move away, also, when I stepped forward.

"What is it you want done, sir?" I asked. "I am a carpenter; perhaps I can do it."

He turned eagerly toward me.

"I will make it worth your while. Take down that cross and I will pay you a hundred dollars. You will have to ascend those ornamental blocks, and I tell you candidly they are not to be depended on; they must be weak and rotten—for they have been there for years."

I looked up at the spire; it was square at the base and tapered to a sharp point, while along each angle were nailed small gilded blocks of wood.

"It's a dangerous place to work," I said, "and there will be even more peril in descending than ascending. Suppose I succeed in moving the stone, and then—"

"If any accident happens to you, my brave fellow, the money shall be paid to your family. I promise you that. Give me your address."

"Here it is," I said, "and as you value your soul keep your word with me. My wife and children are starving or I would not attempt this work. If I die they can live on the hundred dollars for a while until my sick wife recovers her strength."

"I'll make it a hundred and fifty!" exclaimed the architect, and may God protect you! If I had the skill necessary to ascend that steeple I would ask no man to risk his life there. But come, and keep a steady hand and eye."

I followed him into the church, then up into the spire, until we paused before a narrow window. This was the point from which I must start on my perilous feat which I had undertaken.

Casting a single glance at the people in the street below—mere specks in the distance—I reached out from the window, and, grasping one of the ornamental blocks, swung myself out from the spire.

For an instant my courage faltered, but the remembrance of my starving family came to my aid, and with a silent prayer for protection and success, I placed my hand on the next block above my head and clambered up.

From block to block I went, steadily and cautiously, trying each one ere I trusted my weight upon it.

Two thirds of the space had been passed, when suddenly the block that supported me moved—gave way! Oh! heavens! never, though I should live to see a hundred years, shall I cease to shudder at the recollection of that terrible moment.

Yet even in the midst of my agony, as I felt myself slipping backward, I did not for one second lose my presence of mind.

It seemed to me that never before had my senses been so naturally acute as then, when a horrible death seemed inevitable.

Down, down I slipped, grasping at each block as I passed it by, until at length my fearful course was arrested, and then while my head reeled with the sudden reaction, a great shout came from the people below.

"Come down, come down!" called the architect from the window; "half the sum shall be yours for the risk you have run. Don't try it again! Come down."

But, no! more than ever now I was determined to succeed. I was not one to give up, after having undertaken a difficult task.

Coolly, but cautiously, I commenced the ascent once more, first seeking in vain to reach across to the next row of blocks, for I did not dare to trust myself again on that which had proved so treacherous. This I was compelled to do, however, until this space between the angles became sufficiently small to allow me to swing across. Accomplishing my purpose at length, I went up more rapidly, carefully testing each block as I proceeded.

Ere long I reached the cross, and there I paused to rest, looking down from the dizzy height with a coolness that even then astonished me.

A few strokes with a light hatchet that the architect had hung at my back, and piece by piece the rotten cross fell to the ground.

My work was done, and as the last fragment disappeared, I found a sad pleasure in the thought that should I never reach the ground alive, my dear ones would have ample means to supply their wants until my wife could find employment.

Steadily and cautiously I lowered myself from block to block, and at length reached the spire window, amidst the cheers of those assembled in the street.

Inside the steeple the architect placed a roll of bank notes in my hand.

"You have well earned the money," he said. "It does me good to see a man with so much nerve—but, bless me! what is the matter with your hair? It was black before you made the ascent, now it is gray."

And so it was! That moment of intense agony, while slipping helplessly downward, had blanched my hair until it appeared like that of an old man. The work of years had been done in an instant!

Entering the bare, cheerless room which was now all I called my home, I found a visitor awaiting me—my late employer.

"Harvey," said he, extending his hands, "I have done a great wrong. It cost me a terrible pang to believe in your guilt, but circumstances were so strongly against you, that I was forced to believe it. I have found the coin, Harvey; it slipped under the small drawer in my desk. Can you forgive me, dear old friend?"

My heart was too full to speak. I silently pressed his hand.

"I will undo the wrong I have done. All the world shall know how I accused you unjustly, not through my words only, but through my actions, too. You must be my partner, Harvey. If you refuse, I shall feel that you have not forgiven me."

I did not refuse. Instead, I thankfully accepted the offer which my friend so generously made; knowing that no surer method could have been devised to silence forever the tongue of slander, and free my name from the unmerited reproach which had of late rested upon it.

Unmerited prosperity has attended my steps ever since that eventful day, but neither prosperity nor wealth can efface memory from my heart, nor restore my withered locks to their own raven hue.

FINANCE AND COMMERCE.

Financial.

FRIDAY EVENING, June 20, 1873.

Gold in New York to-day, 116¼.

Portland Legal Tender rates, 85¼ buying; 86¼ selling.

Gold bars are quotable at 800 fine.

Wheat in Liverpool—Average California, 11s 10d@11s 11d; club, 12s 4d.

All our latest exchanges from Eastern cities indicate that unemployed capital is again gradually assuming more comfortable proportions and rising above the wants of the commercial community. In the main the situation appears easy enough, though there are some banks which are depleted by discounts made for special branches, that they are still forced to confine their attention to special branches to the exclusion of outside applicants.

The New York Herald of the 7th inst. gives some cogent reasons why the gold combination for so long maintained control of the money market in New York, and why the market to-day remains strong and with a possible point upwards in the not distant future. It has been surmised—or rather it is alleged—that the celebrated syndicate, a corporation of gentlemen, by the way, whose purposes are wrapped in the profoundest mystery, some of whom are supposed to be large borrowers of gold, have been permitted by the Department, in making settlements on account of the funding operations, to give their due bills or certificates instead of gold, as required by the existing law. The consequence is obvious. It is a known fact that the Treasury to day is the actual possessor, and the payment of the pending liabilities of the Government, including accrued interest to date on the public debt, of say about five millions of dollars, and the question naturally arises whether by virtue of this action of the syndicate, if it be correctly represented, a large amount of specie has not been thus withheld, and appears upon the records of the Department only in the shape of the due bills aforesaid. The assumption of the truth of the statement explains the reason why gold has been heavy on the loan market, and, further, why the larger operators have kept confidently absorbing gold at the prices that prevailed during the past few weeks. It is said that these operators have been suspicious as a consequence of these rumors and, furthermore, that they are looking for a decline, to say nothing of possible political and financial complications, in new fives and other American securities abroad; in which event there would be large shipments of gold to Europe, thus furnishing a solution to the difficulties by which the Bank of England is now beset.

The Eastern Wool Market.

Advices by telegraph from the East denote a little better feeling in the wool trade, though prices are still below the anticipations of holders and movements are less active than was expected. By mail we learn that up to the 10th inst. the imports of foreign wool into New York since January 1, 1873, amounted to 28,948 bales against 55,741 bales for the corresponding period in 1872. On the 10th there was a moderately fair demand at pretty uniformly steady prices. The movement of the new clips, except Texas and Pacific coast wools, has been quite meager. Growers appear everywhere slow to accept at current rates.

At Boston, on the same date, there had only been 29 bales imported since January 1st against 2,753 bales for the same time in 1872. The receipts of all kinds for that week were 2,319 bales against 1,675 in 1872 and 3,023 in 1871. The demand was reported as fair at steady prices and but few indications of change. The manufacturers are stocking up to meet the advent of the new clip, and straight lots of fleece, superfine, extra pulled and good average lots of spring California have met with a ready sale. Fall California and burry spring California slow at low prices. Very little California spring has been sold at over 30c, but small lots of choice Northern now arriving command higher figures.

The receipts at Philadelphia for the week, June 10th, were 1,559 bales. The receipts of new clip are as yet small—about 100,000 lbs. The stock of old fleece is unprecedentedly light, and is firmly held. Manufacturers are reported to have on hand limited supplies, but their purchases are sparingly made, limited to their immediate requirements.

If there is a FLORENCE within a thousand miles of Portland not giving entire satisfaction, if I am informed of it, I will attend to it without expense of any kind to the owner.

We have the new style of FLORENCE machine that feeds the work away from the operator (like the Howe or Singer) to meet the views of those preferring that style of Machine.

I have located permanently at Portland, and shall keep constantly on hand a large assortment of all of the latest styles of the Florence machines. Call and see them before purchasing elsewhere.

I have also the agency for the celebrated NONOTUCK CO SEWING SILK and TWIST; JOHN CLARK JR. & CO'S SPOOL COTTON; WILLISTON'S C. F. F. MACHINE THREAD; BAILEY'S PARAFFINE SEWING MACHINE OIL.

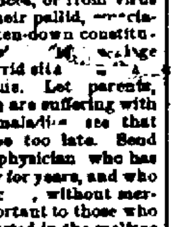
TO THE UNFORTUNATE.

NEW REMEDIES, NEW REMEDIES

Dr. Gibbon's Dispensary,



623 KEARNEY STREET, NEAR COMMERCIAL, San Francisco. Established in 1854, for the treatment of Sexual and Seminal Diseases, such as Gonorrhœa, Gleet, Stricture, Syphilis in all its forms, Seminal Weakness, Impotency, etc. Skin Diseases (of years standing) and Ulcerated Legs [illegible] fully treated.

DR. GIBBON has the pleasure of announcing that he has returned from visiting the principal Hospitals of Europe, and has resumed practice at his Dispensary, 623 Kearny street, corner of Commercial, San Francisco, where his old patients and those requiring his services may find him.

The Doctor has spared neither time nor money in seeking out new remedies, and has returned with increased facilities for the alleviation of human suffering.

Horrible Diseases.

How many thousands of persons, both male and female, are there who are suffering out a miserable existence from the effects of secret indulgences, or from virus absorbed into the system! Look at their pallid, emaciated and disfigured faces and their broken-down constitutions, disqualifying them for the happiness of marriage or the enjoyment of life. In this horrid situation thousands suffer until death closes the scene. Let parents, guardians, friends, attend to those who are suffering with any of these horrible, life-destroying maladies see that they are cared for and cured before it be too late. Send them immediately to DR. GIBBON, a physician who has made private diseases his especial study for years, and who is certain to cure the most inveterate cases, without mercury or any injurious drugs. It is important to those who are afflicted, or to those who are interested in the welfare of their friends, to be careful of the many pretended doctors who infest all cities, publishing their skill in curing all diseases in a few days, imposing upon the public by using the names of eminent physicians from Europe and other places. Be therefore careful and make strict inquiry, or you may fall into the hands of these charlatans.

Seminal Weakness.

Seminal Emissions, the consequence of self-abuse. This solitary vice, or depraved sexual indulgence, is practiced by the youth of both sexes to an almost unlimited extent, producing with unerring certainty, the following train of morbid symptoms, unless combatted by scientific medical measures, viz: Sallow countenance, dark spots under the eyes, pain in the head, ringing in the ears, noise like the rustling of leaves and rattling of chariots, uneasiness about the loins, weakness of the limbs, confused vision, blunted intellect, loss of confidence, diffidence in approaching strangers, a dislike to form new acquaintances, a disposition to shun society, loss of memory, hectic flushes, pimples and various eruptions about the face, furred tongue, fetid breath, coughs, consumption, [illegible] If relief be not obtained [illegible] in prison or by [illegible], and [illegible] by his new and [illegible] of [illegible] which [illegible] of effecting a quick and radical cure. Dr. G. will give One Hundred Dollars to any person who will prove satisfactorily to him that he was cured of this complaint by [illegible] of the San Francisco quacks.

MARRIED MEN.

Or those who contemplate marriage, who are suffering under any of these fearful maladies, should not forget the grand responsibility resting upon them nor delay to obtain immediate relief.

DOCTOR GIBBON is responsible, and will give to such patient a written instrument, binding himself to effect a radical and permanent cure, or make no charge.

CURED AT HOME.

Persons at a distance may be CURED AT HOME, by addressing a letter to Dr. Gibbon, stating case, symptoms, length of time the disease has continued, and have medicine promptly forwarded, free from damage and curiosity, to any part of the country, with full and plain directions. By inclosing Ten Dollars coin, in registered letter through the Postoffice or through Wells, Fargo & Co., a package of medicine will be forwarded to any part of the Union.

All communications strictly confidential.

Caution to the Unfortunate.

Beware of the San Francisco quacks and pretenders who, with bogus sworn-to certificates, dupe the unwary dupe of the self-styled doctors, whose names are to be found in the daily and weekly newspapers of San Francisco and other places, are tradesmen and became too lazy too work at their trades. Some are tinsmiths, shoemakers, newspaper carriers, intelligence office keepers, etc. The only way to avoid imposition is to make inquiry—it will cost you nothing, and may save you many regrets; for, as advertising physicians in eight out of ten are bogus, there is no safety in trusting any of them until you know who and what they are. Dr. Gibbon does not deceive people by exhibiting bogus titles, certificates, pretended patients' letters, etc. Dr. Gibbon will satisfy persons who may call at his offices of his ability to treat diseases that he proposes to cure.

Address DR. J. F. GIBBON, 623 Kearney street, corner Commercial, San Francisco, Post Office Box 1,957.

REMEMBER TO PUT BOX 1,957 ON THE LETTER. Consultation FREE.

Correspondents will please inform DR. GIBBON that they read his advertisement in the Daily Oregonian. jy56dpt
